

The Widowmaker (Trailer)

Female operator: 911, police, fire--

Woman: 911, my husband's having a heart attack.

Female operator: Put the heel of your hand in the center of his chest right between the nipples. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7...

Female operator: Is he conscious?

Woman: No, he's not.

Dr. Agatston: In America and around the world, coronary disease is the number-one killer.

Woman: I'm going to start giving him mouth-to-mouth. He's turning black.

Dr. Nissen: About a third of patients, the first event is... sudden death.

Dr. Agatston: And this is a completely preventable disease. The science is the slam-dunk.

Prof. Brundage: One day he said to me, "Would you like to see something really neat?"

Dr. Agatston: We were amazed at the images.

Dr. Rumberger: Every time we tried to redo the experiments, we got the same answer. It's just remarkable.

Prof. Brundage: We were working on something that turned out to be valuable.

Dr. Locke: Some of the best cardiologists advised against it.

Dr. Nissen: I'm not a fan of it. I don't like medical cults.

Computer male voice: Breathe in.

René Oliveira: Well, he's an idiot. It saved my life. Hold your breath. And if it saved mine, it can save others.

Man: Quick. I don't think she's breathing. Oh, God almighty.

Prof. Brundage: How many lives do you think would have been saved if we'd done it in 1990 what we're doing now? A lot.
